

LEATHER

Unfortunately most people do not realize that leather is also the skin of a dead animal that has spent its life in captivity ultimately being exploited and killed. Like fur, leather is a product whose manufacture is always accompanied by violence against animals.

Leather a waste product?

Leather is a „waste product“ of the meat industry isn't correct: an animal that is degraded to „slaughter cattle“ is completely recycled down to its last part of the body. The consumption and marketing of leather goods therefore means that it is still profitable to exploit and kill the animals. The sale of animal skin accounts for up to ten percent of the total value that is generated by slaughtering an animal.

The wearing and use of leather products also symbolically helps to ensure that animals are exploited and exploited for humans. However, animals do not exist for us humans, but have the right to live free from human oppression!

The lie of the "leather eco product"

The fallacy also turns out to be the argument that leather is more environmentally friendly to manufacture and disposal than for example synthetic materials. In truth, leather production is due to the numerous tanning processes, apart from the general ecological burden caused by animal husbandry, a great burden on the environment.

Consequences

Do you support the violence against animals by consuming animal products? It's best to choose a vegan lifestyle that no longer allows and supports the exploitation of animals.
